To whom it may concern

I have a diploma as visiting nurse of the City Hospital, SS Giovanni and Paolo, Venice, Italy, since 1970. I worked for two years at the City School, then at the psychiatric community centre of Portogiuaro, Venice for five years, and then for seven months at the Anti-Drugs Center of Mestre, Venice.

When, in Poona in 1976, I started practising Bhagwan's meditation, I immediately felt that He must be the greatest psychiatrist in the world, and also that His knowledge of the human soul goes beyond any psychological science.

As a matter of fact, Bhagwan has never denied the great contribution made by Freud and others to the science of psycho-analysis, but He has emphasized that this is just the first step and that another step is needed.

My interest in human beings has deepened since I have become a disciple of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, and its expressions in the individual and social manifestations have been greatly enriched.
