Dear Sir,

My association with Bhagwan Rajneesh goes back thirteen years when due to personal problems I was a total wreck who could not live without endure living without Valium and other sedatives.
I heard his lectures and tried out his meditations. His active meditation transform me completely and since then I have not taken any medication.

I have read many of his books and these have transformed me from an aggressive, angry person to one of understanding and tolerance. He, by his own compassion, has made me love my fellow beings and enjoy living.

Today I am the Head of the History Department of the Jgana High School for Girls which has an intake of 1100 students. My relation ship with my colleagues is excellent - if I may be allowed to blow my own trumpet!
Intellectually he has revolutionised to my thinking.

I am a Sikh by religion - through him I have become a true Sikh. He has taught me that what matters is the quality of religiousness - this is what we need to love and understand our fellow human beings.

Bhagwan is a man of peace and love and his teaching means - 'learn to live'. Life is for enjoyment and laughter and happiness. He has taught me to live, love and share my blessings with my fellow human beings.

America is blessed to have this man living master among on its soil

Yours truly,
(A. Grewal)
