TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I am a Chartered Engineer and Member of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers. Studied at the University of Aston in Birmingham in Management of Industry. I have been working for twenty years as an industrial Engineer.

There is an aspect of the work which is most troubling. As a result of my efforts in making business more efficient many have been made redundant. There is always the view that if the business is not made more profitable today it may have to close tomorrow, due to competition, when all employees will lose their livelihood, but this does not ease the aggravation of having such a disturbing influence on the lives of so many.

Recently I have been wonderfully influenced by the teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh who has absolutely improved my motivation to my job.

I was fortunate to be invited to attend the recent Celebration in Oregon where the presence of Bhagwan opened a new attitude to my work. Listening to his words and feeling the inspiration in his following I have at last understood some meaning in life destiny and that my contribution to the lives of the people affected by my work is to their ultimate advantage and their move to new employment even though it is enforced, will be beneficial to themselves, the employer and the country.

Yours faithfully,

Satya Vedant .
