

Laguna Beach, Aug. 4

It happened in Australia through some mysterious way that I ended up in a little village in the middle of the Australian bush when I ran into a Samyessian. We lived together for a while and I started reading Bhagwan books. Especially 'The Wisdom of the Sands' fascinated me. It was that's the story about the transformation of a river reaching to desert....

All my life I've been running around the world trying to find an answer for - what is the purpose of life .... Every time I read in his book my restlessness disappeared because he had an answer for all of our problems.

In the next few months I meditated and felt a change within myself starting to happen. I realized that I've been chasing my own tail for all these years trying to become somebody different than I am, trying to achieve the impossible and always running against the wind, which caused a lot of depression.

When I took Samyas on July 10th '83 I felt that there is still a long journey in front of me but completely different. I learned to rest within myself. I accept myself more and I surrendered to the flow of existence enjoying every moment. He gave me the name of a river - SINDHU.

I love Bhagwan. Samyas is a love affair and a love affair is beyond words.
